Congratulations!

You have made your first step in your business agility journey.

In these challenging times, understanding where you are in the agility journey is a great start. By understanding where you are in this process, you can then set a course of action to redefine longer-term improvements to your business.

Ultimately, you can become much better at reacting to changes in the external environment and ensuring that you evolve and get better as a business.

To aid this, IDC has created a set of recommendations, based on the stages you are at across the different elements of agility. Based on the answers you provided, IDC places your business at Stage 5 in its overall agility journey.

IDC refer to this stage as Agile Master.
